Within the memories of each are the students who dare to be. The corridors echo with the hopes for the future. The accomplishments of the past. It is this daring spirit that makes Churchland High School the land of the Truckers.

The football team, day after day, game after game, dares to attempt to win. They dare to try with only the faithful fans to carry them.

Honor students dare to advance, to put the extra effort in that it takes to reach their goals.

Friendships form each year. People dare to trust and be trusted; they dare to care.

What is the need to the Truckers' daring attitude. We dare to work, to try, to care, to share, to achieve, to believe, to hope, and to cope. We dare to be Truckers. We dare because we are.

Yourself

A Night on the Town

Girls and guys dressed in their formal wear of gowns and tuxedos. As they entered the Holiday Inn Ballroom, they went under a black and white canopy with greenery underneath. The room was filled with excitement and loud music. The lights were dimmed with only chandelier and stage lights lighting the room. In one corner stood model buildings of Manhattan. A stuffed gorilla sat on top of one of the buildings overlooking the festivities. The stage was covered with instruments and lights. Two silver palm trees stood on opposite ends of the building. A large top hat filled with silver, red and black balloons stood in the corner of the dance floor. A large skyline mural stood against the left wall. As a person walked toward the back, an ice shaped swan was highlighted with blue light. Food was of abundance on banquet tables. Drinks were served on opposite corners of the room. Tables filled in the empty spaces with top hats and red, silver, and black balloons as centerpieces. The room was filled with reds, silvers, and blacks. When the people were gone, the festive air also disappeared.

The room will never come again.

Rain, Rain Go Away

The time was 7:30, and the graduation ceremonies of the class of 1986 were going smoothly. With both smiles and tears the graduates proceeded to their seats. After the guest speakers had finished giving their speeches, the graduates approached the stage to receive what they had all been waiting for - their diplomas. First, the honor graduates crossed the stage and then the remaining student body in alphabetical order. Suddenly, to everyone's surprise, flashes were seen shooting across the sky. Within minutes the rain came pouring down and cracks of lightning became visible. The class officers, the guest speakers, the class advisor, the principal, and the assistant principals were all unaware of the lightning and pouring rain because of an overhanging stage awning. Therefore, they continued at a slow, calm pace. Meanwhile, all of the guests and graduates were in a panic and were soaked with the heavy rains.

The guests and the graduates of the class of '86 will always remember the graduation ceremony not only because it symbolized the beginning of a new chapter in the graduates' lives but also because of the pouring rain and their wet clothes. When asked about the severe weather conditions during the graduation ceremony, the senior class advisor, Mr. Marvin Fanny, exclaimed, "I knew it was going to rain. It's rained at every graduation ceremony I've ever participated in."

Enduring the Times

Teachers come and go through the years, but some endure the trials of their profession longer than others. Why would a person choose to spend twenty or thirty years of his or her life teaching. The answer must be love. Teaching cannot really be considered a normal job. Often teachers spend more time in preparing a lesson than in giving it. Even though these teachers are major contributors to a better society, their labors often seem to go unnoticed. However, each teacher is able to take pride in helping to produce more capable human beings. This is truly the case for those teachers who have endured the times because of their undying love for sharing their knowledge with others.

To those who have reached the twenty year mark in teaching, we salute you!

Takin' It Easy

A large part of the identity of a high school student comes from that person's activities outside of the school, activities done for social purposes or merely to kill time. In many cases a person's hobbies place him into a specific social group like skaters, surfers, or car enthusiasts.

Here at Churchland we have many talented people who partake in a wide variety of activities. Surfing and skateboarding are by far two of Churchland's most popular sidelines, and in both there are people who stand out above the rest. In skateboarding, the once super popular fad, Jaye and Lee Thomas, Steve Smith, and John Chilton have stuck with it and it shows. Surfing, a relatively new sport at CHS, also has some standouts like Chad O'Connor, Stephen Mann, Warren Powell, and Chris Savoie. Other popular hobbies include BMX freestyle, hot rod cars, skiing, and music.

You May Kiss the Bride

"You may kiss the bride," said Brian Murray to Richard Davis as he leaned forward to kiss his bride Chrissy Monroe and said Bryan Bouboulis to Frankie Edmondson as he leaned forward to kiss his bride Jessica Canos.

Again the Family Living classes, taught by Mrs. Cydney Cavender, successfully gave their presentations of the mock weddings, which took place in Churchland High School's auditorium.

"I didn't realize how nerve wrecking this whole ordeal was until I heard the tune to Here Comes the Bride and marched down the aisle," remarked Jessica Canos.

The ceremonies were enhanced with music from pianist Jeff Walton and vocalist Lisa Morgan. Following the ceremony was the reception, which was held in the school's cafeteria. Then afterwards the couples departed for their brief honeymoons.

"My honeymoon was so short that it seemed like I didn't even leave the school," added Jessica Canos.

The fun was over, and back to class they all went. The presentations together were a huge success.

From Head to Toe What's Hot at CHS

Let Your Hair Down. Not at Churchland. Pulling your hair back with banana clips and colorful bows was a popular fad this year.

Aren't They Heavy? Patricia Stevenson, Kathy Richards, and Karen Moser stop to show off their fashionable earrings, which generally came in large sizes.

Too Much Time on our Hands. Time was ticking away with Swatches, Volkswagens, Mickey Mouses, waterproof dials, and gold watches.

Old Standbys. Jeans returned stronger than ever as modeled by Jim Pittman, Cary House, Jamie White, and Paul Jesselson.

Sneak a Peak at Fashion Sneakers. Hightops, Converse, and Reeboks topped the sneaker scene.

Putting Your Best Foot Forward. Silver shoes ... black boots ... Peter Pan boots ... loafers ... T & C surf shoes ... flats ... sneakers.

GQ. Mike Riddleberger is ready for the magazines, modeling the GQ look, which included deck shoes, stone washed jeans, suspenders, bright colored shirts, and a close cropped haircut.

Peace. Jason Farwell gives the peace sign as he models his own style, which included the return of the denim jacket.

Glamour. Karen Moser and Rachel Rivera model two of the newest dress styles in khaki and blue.

Finally. During the hot days of homecoming week, Juan Wood took advantage of the new rule allowing shorts.

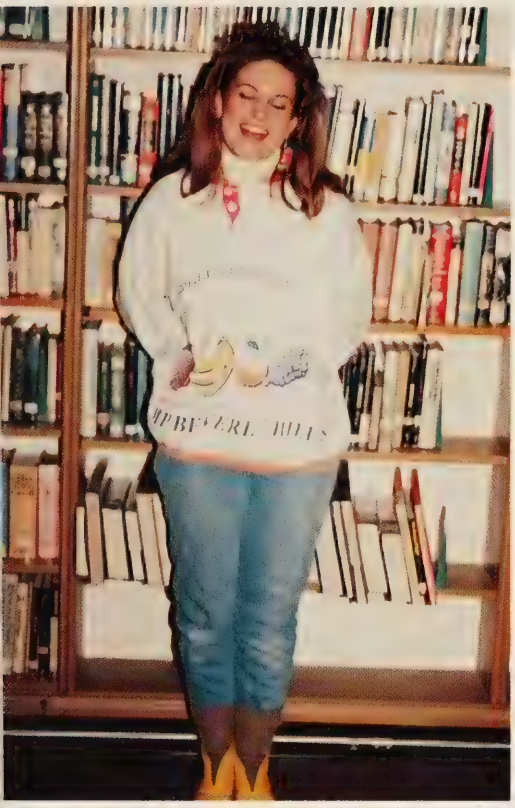
Longer Lasting. Mrs. Natalie Parker liked her skirts long, long while Amy Morgan enjoyed the jeans and sweatshirt look.

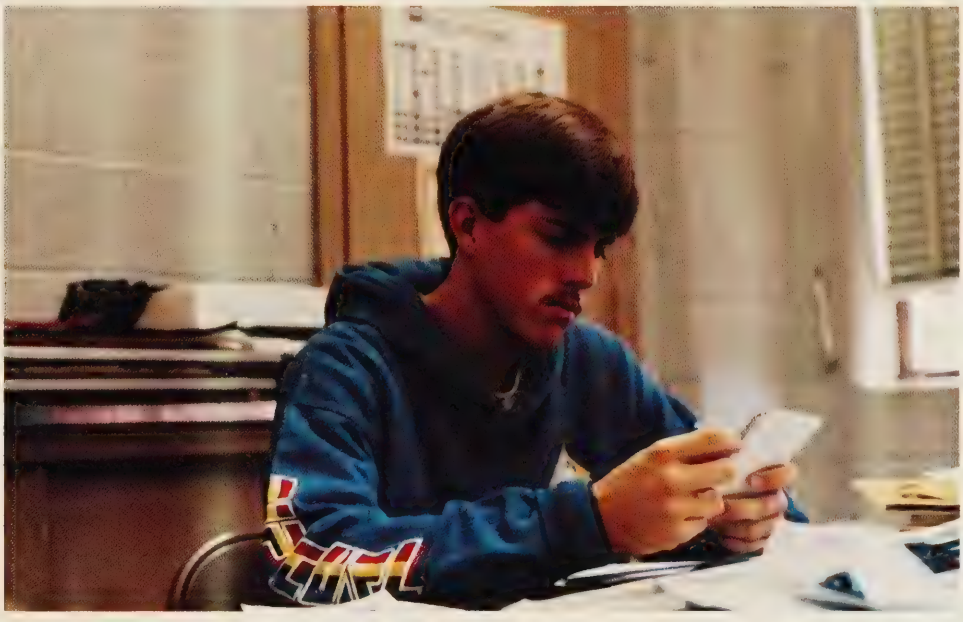
Now Ear This. Earrings became a popular accessory this year for guys like Jimmy Babb.

Classy Sweats. Camp Beverly Hills, University of ..., Coca Cola, Swatch, and I.O.U. sweatshirts and shirts were well liked when going casual. Melissa Harris preferred the Camp Beverly Hills look with watermelon earrings.

Fall Blends. Amy Gilpin shows us her version of the safari look while Matthew Pickworth models one of the big colors this year - khaki.

Leading with Style. Mrs. Vicky Tavernier stayed in style with her bronze shoes, bright colors, and bold prints.





Ripcurl. Surfing inspired styles were big this year. Here Rusty Hayslett shows off one of his favorite sweatshirts.

Standing Out. Prints, plaids, and bold shapes were big this year with Kira Krumm.

Going to the Head of the Class

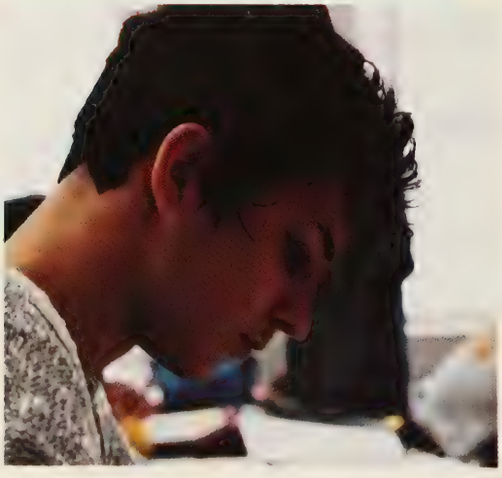
Mousse. Gel. Sculpting Lotion. The Wet Look. The Razor Cut. The Crewcut. Highlighting. The Bob. Long Hair. Short Hair. Surfer Cuts. The Skater's Cut. The Box Cut.

Hair ranged from very short to very long for both guys and girls this year. Hair seemed to be the easiest way to express one's individuality. Changing from blond to black seemed nothing to some while others kept their traditional cuts. Musicians, athletes and actors were the inspiration for cuts this season.

Some Like it Short ... Easy to manage. No time for care. Kristin Phillips says the best is short hair.

Choose your Color. "If you don't like it, change it," was the attitude this year as Lori Hayes and friend show off their highlighted hair.

My own way. Jon Troxler expresses himself through his individualistic - and ever changing - hairstyles.



Air Inspired Hairstyles

Television and movies continued to inspire fashion trends. Movies like Top Gun and Rocky IV provided a new focus for guys' hairstyles.

Tom Cruise's razor cut with extremely short hair in the back and on the sides and Dolph Lundgren's crewcut helped to bring short hair - really short hair - back to the popular masses.

Why a return of short hair? Most guys found it extremely easy to care for. A little gel or mousse could turn a short prep cut into the wet look or a crewcut or a flattop.

Whatever the reasons, guys decided to let the razor do the talking.

A Little Off All Over. Stephen Mann shows off two of the many haircuts inspired by the military - the crewcut (top) and the short razored cut.

Take My Picture ... Please! The box cut was a popular haircut for Darrain Peoples and his friends.

... Some Like it Long. Jeff Preziotti prefers long hair as a means of showing off his free spirited lifestyle.

A Final Homecoming

Friday night. Homecoming week had finally come to an close. As a senior in the stands, it was a time of mixed feelings. Seeing all the firends that had graduated last year reminded me that in one short year, I would be a visiting alumna instead of part of the school. Sadness wasn't the only feeling though. It was fun to sit in the stands and cheer the football team on. The homecoming procession was exciting. The overall feeling of the night was that school spirit and unity will always be a part of the memories of the students.

Everybody Loves a Parade!

Many of the residents of Churchland lined the streets to see the Churchland High School Homecoming Parade on October 3rd. Although a few were annoyed by the traffic problems the parade caused, the majority of the enthusiastic spectators thoroughly enjoyed hearing the band, reviewing the homecoming court, and trying to figure out just which float would take first place.

The class of '88 seems to have a knack for building floats, placing every year and taking first place this year with "Somewhere Over the Rainbow." The seniors took a different aspect of the homecoming theme with "Once Upon a Time." Instead of a scene from a favorite fairy tale, the senior float, which won second place, recollected the important events of the past four years at CHS. The sophomore float featured a scene from Cinderella. Other entries came from the freshmen, who depicted a scene from "Snow White and the Seven Dwarves," and from the chorus, who featured storytime in the old rocker.

Cheering in the Great Outdoors

The homecoming pep rally this year was different from most held recently at CHS. It was held in the stadium where there were bleachers for everyone. No freshmen had to line the walls on either side of the gym.

Competition for the "Most Spirited Class" award was fierce. The juniors were chosen by the faculty panel as the most spirited. Though the juniors were the loudest, the message from the student body was clear - "Good luck, Truckers!!"

Isn't He Lovely ... Or at Least Presentable to the Public

I had sworn that I would never do it again. "What?" you ask. Judge a Cinderfella contest.

After judging the contest for the last two years, I'm still not sure what you look for in a perspective Cinderfella winner. Charm? Beauty? Poise? Talent? Femininity? I'm sure that it's all of these things and one thing more. GUTS. Anybody who can get up there dressed like the contestants do, perform a talent routine, and parade across the stage has my vote. I guess that's why I found it difficult each time to pick a winner.

And what looked me in the face this year - Chad Dennis and his "Ode to a Tree," that shaving cream fight, Trey Hanbury wearing Karen Moser's big - and I mean big - blue earrings, Ben Hester's red, white and black running shoes under an evening gown.

I guess that along with guts you've got to be fairly creative too. At any rate, participating in this activity shows you have a good sense of humor and the ability to laugh at yourself, two qualities to be admired in anyone.

Whether I'll judge the 1987 pageant is another thing though.

"What can't I resist" Perky McGuirky (Trey Hanbury) ponders over what he can't possibly resist in a man.

Round One. Ronnie Culpepper pins fourth runner-up Mike O'Connor in a pool of shaving cream.

Love them shoes. Voluptuous Vickie (Ben Hester) gracefully lifts his lovely pageant footwear.

There He is. Newly crowned is the 1986 Cinderfella Chad Dennis.

The Road to Fame

Bright red lights flash. Loud screaming sirens. A policeman.

"Uh, hello there officer. Is there something we can do for you?"

"Yes, there is. The neighbors along the block have called to complain about the noise."

"Noise?"

"Yes, they can't sleep because they said that there is a bunch of guys singing and dancing loudly along the median."

Laughter.

"Okay, sir, we'll try to keep it down. Sorry."

This was just one of the many trials and tribulations faced by this year's senior cheerleaders. Constant fear of being arrested while sporting their mom's best wigs, snagged pantyhose, and "hard" cheers were just a few obstacles that stood in the way of fame.

Who would have guessed it?

Well, they weren't the Dallas Cowboy cheerleaders, but their hard work and devotion made them famous anyway - if only for a night.

The Thrill of Victory

The huddle broke up and I took my place. November 24th was here. All those practices in the cold had led us to these moments. The booming thunderclouds did nothing to dampen the spirits of the senior girls. Conversations of sneak plays during the past few weeks had replaced our usual ones about dates and other general gossip.

Tonight was what we had worked for. Now I was to carry the ball. The goal line seemed so far away. In the backfield I waited, barely able to stand still. When I heard "Hike," my heart jumped to my throat. Barely able to stand up in the slippery mud, I had to somehow run. Nerves didn't help much either. Anticipating being rushed by a junior, my heart was thumping faster than my feet. Somehow I reached the end zone, proud to have won some points for the seniors. I could feel our senior pride pouring out as I was swamped by the exuberant seniors. After three more quarters of intense struggle with the strong juniors, the seniors still dominated.

I may have scored the points but it was the drive and persistance of a wonderful bunch of girls, the SENIORS, that won the night for us.

Stephanie Mabry

Edmondson, Peggy Thomas Garner Mr. and Miss CHS Titles

The Mr. and Miss Churchland Pageant was more than what the audience saw on Saturday, January 31st.

Yes, the girls were glamorous and the guys were stunning, but the glitter took a little work, some preparation, and lots of effort. The contestants had to be fitted for tuxedoes and gowns, a dance had to be learned. They had to practice their walk and talk and had to find where they were to stand at certain given times. The girls had to sit through a nerveracking, three minute judges' interview.

But through all the rehearsals, the contestants stuck together and kept each other smiling. Everyone tried hard to do his part and get it right. By the end of the evening the work had paid off. The finalists were then announced. The questioning took place and, boy, did some voices crack.

The moment was drawing near as the runners-up were announced - second runners-up Elizabeth Wiggins and Van Younkins and first runners-up Beth Burkhardt and Mike Riddleberger. Finally the moment arrived. "The 1987 Mr. Churchland is Frankie Edmondson and Miss Churchland is Peggy Thomas."

Peggy Thomas

"Oh, my God!" Peggy Thomas shows her shock at becoming Miss Churchland 1987.

Getting It Together

On January 31, 1987, the Churchland High Choral Department presented the Mr. and Miss Churchland Pageant. It was a very enjoyable evening, and part of the reason was because of the preparations that took place behind the scenes.

The pageant, in its first stages, began with contestant contracts and information sheets, which had to be filled out before anyone could actually participate.

The second step was preparing for the big night. While the conestants were busy being interviewed by the judges, working with choreogaphers, and worrying about the formal wear, the choral department was arranging public relations, obtaining sponsors, deciding on prizes, arranging entertainment within the pageant and preparing for stage operations and directions. This took a great deal of time and money. Over five hundred dollars was spent on prizes and other expenses - $100 a piece for the winners, $75 for the second place winners, and $50 for the third place winners, plus flowers and trophies for the winners, decorations for the stage, refreshments, and the police.

After all of these pre-pageant preparations and arrangements were completed, everyone was ready for the final night when all the work would finally pay off.

Are You Ready?

"Are you ready for CHS? Are you ready to be challenged by none but the best?"

These are familiar words to the Churchland cheerleaders who yell them many times in support of the school. It is quite a task to learn all of the cheers and chants that the varsity and jv cheerleaders know. They work hard. Even after school is out, they are hard at work to learn something new and to improve their style.

In June of 1986, both squads attended a week-long cheering camp at Old Dominion University. Along with about fifteen other squads from all over the Tidewater area, they participated in cheering classes, evaluations, and even cheerobics. Because of their experiences at camps, lots of hard work and dedication, the varsity and jv cheerleaders came back to Churchland in September with a new cheering style and an enthusiastic outlook about the year ahead. The varsity and jv cheerleaders are definitely ready for CHS.

Golf Team has "Par" Season

There is no expression other than "par for the course" that best exemplifies the golf team's season. Number one Jim Pittman had a great season but just couldn't pull it together "down the stretch." Other top perfomrnaces were turned in by Boyd Griffin in district play and by Brian Pleasants in regional action. Other team members Paul Jesselson, Brian Tarkenton, Shawn James, and Neal Wellons spent the season challenging each other for starting jobs, but all did contribute to an overall impressive season.

During each match the lowest four scores out of the six players were compiled to form the team's score with the team with the lowest score winning the match. The season's end found Churchland second in the district tourney behind number one Great Bridge.

Cross Country? Sounds like something you do in the snow. No, it's running - and lots of it. Someimtes it's up to one hundred miles a week to train for one 3.1 mile race a week.

This year, for the fourth consecutive time, Shelton Wilson coached the cross country team to a victory in the city meet. This year, just like last year, the team lost the district meet by a narrow margin. Placing second in the district meet qualified the team to compete in the regional meet at Mount Trashmore. Although the team faired well, Ben Hester was the only one to qualify for the state meet by placing fourteenth in the regional meet.

New Coach Sparks Girls' Tennis Team

It was a tough match throughout, and finally it was match point. The return was executed perfectly, which placed the ball deep yet barely inside the baseline. With difficulty the opponent sent the ball back. Nothing could prevent Churchland from winning the point, and after a short rally, the Lady Trucker put the ball away. Point - Churchland. Game, set, and match - another victory for Churchland. With the help of the team's new coach and through hard work and practices, the girls' tennis team finished third in the Southeastern District with a 5-3 record.

This year members of the girls' tennis team worked hard to improve their game with Coach Charlotte McEachern, a teacher at Woodrow Wilson High School. She was a great help and a great coach to the girls. This team was led by seniors Anne St. George, who played number one, and Elizabeth Wiggins, who played at the number two spot. Juniors JinAh Lee, Mary Beth Honaker, and Jessica Canos filled up the number three, four and five positions. Rounding out the line-up of starting positions was SunAh Lee. Other team members included Michele Kim, Leslie Jessee, Heather Geoghegan, and Shaniyh Chough.

Varsity Coaching Staff. Assistant Coaches Calvin Lawrence and Steve Goode and head coach Carl Rhodes. This marked the first year as head coach for Rhodes, who had served sixteen years as assistant to Bill Strickland.

Rhodes Makes Debut as Head Coach

The Truckers had a disappointing season this year. It was disappointing not only to the fans but to the players as well. The players wanted to make this season a winning one for Coach Carl Rhodes in his debut as head coach. Week after week, the players were out at practice giving their all in hopes of winning the upcoming game. Players came out to practice with bangs, bruises, broken bones, and other injuries.

The high injury rate among players hurt the Truckers this season. Bryan Bouboulis suffered a broken leg along with Kenny Britt. Pat Poole had knee surgery while Tony Boone experienced a bad shoulder. The injuries, however, didn't stop the players, and Coach Carl Rhodes kept his enthusiasm high. The players and the coaches kept coming back. They could have given up; it would have been so easy. Pride made them come back and for that the players and coaches are to be commended.

The Heat Goes On

Summer practice for the Truckers is a time of hard work, sweat, sore muscles, and anticipation. The heat becomes unbearable, the work long, and the expectation of a winning season omnipresent. All summer long the players looked forward to playing in the first game. They looked forward to a winning season which always seems shorter than a long losing season. The spirits were high and the summer triumphs many. The players liked the hitting, the battles, and the personal victories over an opponent. Before long it was all over. The season had arrived for the players to test their preparations.

Young Matmen Gain Needed Experience

Although this was not a very successful year for winning matches, the wrestling team gained much needed experience on the mats. This year's team was made up primarily of sophomores and freshmen, most of whom had not started last year.

Injuries, early in the season, also plagued the team. Expected to be a top contender, Sandy Crone was sidelined with an injury.

Despite the lack of experience, one wrestler came through strongly - Mark Powell. Powell, a junior, wrestled, however, only the last half of the season. Despite this fact, Powell qualified for the Eastern regional competitions, the only player from Churchland to do so.

In a dual meet, the home team generally peforms on the vault first while the visitors are peforming on the unevens. After switching places, the teams take a short break where scores are announced. All during these events and the others scores are constantly being posted. After a break, the teams head for the floor exercises and the beam to complete the meet. At the conclusion of the four events, the individual winners are announced, as well as the all around winners.

Shooting to the Top

"Shooting to the top" was the motto for the boys' varsity basketball team.

To accomplish their goal, they strove down the courts with intensity to reach the point of perfection. They worked hard all season to win and - most importantly - to make their classmates and friends proud of them.

Starting for this goal oriented group were Bobby Holloman, Mahtorhee Bell, Quinton Drewry, Eric Wynn, and Kevin Glynn. Reserves included William McKoy, Alvin Darden, Leodan Wood, Doug Anderson, and Thomas Sessoms.

In Churchland's eyes and in the eye's of the our opponents, the Truckers proved to be a force with which to reckon.

"Jumpball. Get It, Get It!"

Block out. Slide your fet. Shoot! Deny the baseline. Intensity. Momentum. Jump. Follow through. Turnovers will kill us! These are just some of the key words that the girls' varsity basketball team heard all season.

Coach Danny Deniso instructed the girls' team for a second season in a very positive way. The season began with twelve players, but by the end the team had dwindled to a dedicated eight. Practices were often difficult to conduct since two teams could not be formed, but the fearless Truckers used this as an incentive.

The Lady Truckers say goodbye this year to two of their graduating seniors - Erinn Finger and Rachel Brisbin. Rachel found the time between her gymnastics practices and meets to be part of the team this year. Erinn was the team's center and high scorer.

The season whizzed by with Saturday practices, new shoes, long bus rides, missing referees. many close fourth quarters, and a position in the Southeastern District Tournament. Although the girls were defeated by Deep Creek in the tournament, the season was "tremendous."

Hoping ....

"We just couldn't seem to do anything right."

These were the sentiments of Taylor Rhodes as he recounted the 1986-87 boys' junior varsity basketall season. Rhodes, the only returning starter from last year's team, and the others tried to make the debut season for Coach Babb a winning one. With only one returning starter, the closest to winning the team, which was 0-12, came was a nine point loss.

It just wasn't meant to be this year but there's always next year.

Information reported by Taylor Rhodes

Anticipation. The JV players watch intensely from the sidelines.

That First Win

As the game was coming to an end, the crowd was yelling and screaming. I wanted to win because I wanted the joy of winning after all of our losses.

I had so much energy that I felt that could play forever.

There are only two minutes left. The two teams make baskets but are neck and neck all the way. In the last twenty seconds Amy and Whitney are bringing the ball down the court slowly to waste time. Amy and I pull one of our stunts to fake the defense. It works. Amy and I pass the ball back and forth to each other; then she passes to Tammy. Tammy passes to Whitney. I move out, and Whitney passes to me at the three point range with two seconds left. All of a sudden my stomach fills with butterflies.

I shoot the ball, the buzzer sounds, and the ball swooshes in.

As the crowd goes wild, I am surrounded by all my teammates in a frenzy of joy.

Now we know that all the hard work at practice pays off.

Springing into Soccer and Tennis

Boys' Tennis

Churchland's boys' tennis team had a very successul season last year, placing second in the Southeastern District. The team came into the season with last year's district champion Pat Canos. Pat also captured the doubles crown with his partner Donald Fusselo.

The first half of the squad was strong and led by seniors Pat Canos, Donald Fussello, and Mike Huppe. Other members of the team proved to be promising with great efforts from from Gary Bennett, Phillip Thomasson, Glenn Samick, Van Younkins, Brian Lieberman, Chai Cosby, Brian Casper, and Jason Jones.

Jessica Canos

Soccer

Coming off a third place district finish, returning soccer players Juan Wood, Leodan Wood, John Gomoke, Mike Keefer, Karl Teemant, James Degaraff, Jay Smith, and Aaron Addison looked forward to an even better season.

This season saw the third coach, Duke Conrad, in four years for the senior players. The first few games against Beach district schools provided the team with some experience before the start of their district games.

Indoor Track

Some say it's a great and easy sport to stay in shape for the "real" sports in spring. Others feel it is merely a long series of sharp pains broken up by some running. From either viewpoint though, the indoor track team did well in '87.

They ranked high in the district competition and showed favorably in many invitational meets, such as the overnight meet at Virginia Tech. Leading the way to the team's success was senior Kenny Britt, who went to the state competition, and Ben Hester, a junior, who set the winning pace for several runs.

Baseball

Looking forward to a return trip to Met Park for the regional playoffs was the primary goal for the varsity baseball team. Spurred on by the pitching of Cary House and Jim Pittman, the return looked promising. Aiding the pitching staff were infielders Brian Plesants, Jimmie Greene, Paul Jesselson, and Warren Powell and outfielders Dennis Buckley and Bryan Bouboulis.

Many good prospects showed up for tryouts; however, only a few spots were open for them. With a game plan of taking one game at a time, the players worked hard and long to see the profits of their efforts.

Softball

Stepping in as head coach for the Lady Truckers softball team was Bill Strickland. Returning to his squad were ten players from last year, four of which were seniors.

His team comes off a second place season, losing only to Deep Creek last year. He will be assisted by Mrs. Judy Glisson, who handled the head coaching job last year. The strength of his returnees provided for a strong core with which to work.

Morris Heads FHA Chapter at CHS

The Churchland chapter of the Future Homemakers of America this year consisted of 54 members. In order to be a member of this organization, one must have completed one year of home economics either in junior or senior high school.

The FHA sponsors are Ms. Maxine Carey and Mrs. Cydney Cavender. The FHA officers for the '86-'87 school year are

President - Mikaela Morris
Vice-President - Drusilla Chisholm
Secretary - Amy Mitchell
Treasurer - Carla Williams
Historian - Beth Terwilliger

FHA does many things for the community. At Christmas time they sent Christmas cards to residents in Autumn Care Nursing Home. Halfway through the year, they had a guest speaker who spoke about bulimia. They usually have at least one guest speaker per semester.

FHA is a fun organization to get in. The meetings are fun, and they always have delicious refreshments. They also have a week every year designated as FHA Week. It was held February 9-13. Their annual contest was the "Sweetheart Contest."

FHA is always looking for more good members. They hope to increase their membership and to do more for the community.

Pounding the Pavement in Band

Three weeks before school starts. The setting is a boiling, blister-producing parking lot. Necessary equipment: sunglasses, drill charts, ice water thermoses, patience. Marching straight into winter the setting changes slightly to an unshielding, nipping wind plain. Long johns, gloves, hot chocolate, wool jackets, and temperance become the status quo. Yet this is no status quo organization. How many school organizations can one see practicing six hours a day before the school year begins? two hours a day after school? sacrificing entire Saturdays in order to produce a winning band?

The band attended five marching competitions winning various awards at each. For the first time the band spent a Friday night in a hotel in Cary, NC before participating in an all day Cary Band Day including a two mile parade and field competition. Another first was the attendance of a non-band member to all of the competitions. Labelled the "Band Fan," Irma D'Amato could be picked out of the crowd, yelling supportive cheers.

The Second Annual Trucker Classic was a huge success this year. Community support was tremendous especially with Portsmouth General Hospital donating the trophies to be awarded.

For the first time in several years there is a jazz band. Purely voluntary, it is made up of students who are really enthusiastic, and many have even learned new instruments in order to be a part of this new group. At the band's Christmas concert, the jazz band even received a standing ovation. The jazz band is indeed one of the most active organizations in the school.

A Behind the Scenes Look with Chorus

After watching a chorus concert, many people get the impression that chorus is a fun and easy thing to do. This is not always the case. Participating in chorus may seem easy but it's actually a lot of hard work.

Chorus students spend a great deal of time in class learning and rehearsing music for a concert. The time that isn't spent in class is usually reserved for after school rehearsals or for reviewing the music at home. Participation in the Able and Ambitious program, regional chorus, and the town lighting ceremonies at Christmas also take up time for chorus students.

In short, chorus is not something that one goes into for an easy grade. It's filled with hard work, time and effort but when all these things come together, the end product is fun and well worth the wait.

Take Ten!!

The set is up, the curtain opens, the lights slowly rise and the actor begins to speak. The audience sits enthralled until the actor takes his bow and the final curtain closes. After a moment of stunned silence ... thunderous applause. A success!!

No mention is made of the sweat, tears, and panic that went into the production. The audience will never know how many minor emergencies occurred during the production they so thoroughly enjoyed.

Why do students spend hours of their free time working on the plays? What kind of reward do they get? Besides the thrill of seeing an audience enjoy the product of their hard work, there are other rewards. If a student is really motivated, he can work ten hours on production and become a thespian - the core of the drama club. There is, however, another step up from thespian. If a person works sixty hours, he becomes an honor thespian.

Drama has its rewards - the greatest being the satisfaction of a job well done.

Hail to Caesar!

Grapes. Blueberry muffins. Raisins. Cheese. Bologna. Grape juice. No, this isn't a feast. It's an ancient Roman breakfast. Dressed in a purple toga and a laurel wreath, Matthew Pickworth presides as consul. All the Latin subjects are playing games - Roman tic-tac-toe and pass the spool. Mr. Robert Moore has a look of pleasure on his face as he watches the Latin tradition live. Praises are given to Bacchus and Jupiter for the fine food and drink fit only for the gods.

Latin Club is a time of food and fun. Latin I-V meet to celebrate the festive times of Rome. During the Christams season, Mr. Strickland dresses up as Santa and gives out a small token to every good Latin scholar. Afterwards, a small snack is eaten and another Christmas in Rome ends.

This is only Latin Club's second year since its revival, and its enthusiasm has greatly increased. As Mr. Moore says, "Zowie!"

Erinn Finger

"I Win." Richie Brinkley gets to hold Victor the Bear as a reward for answering correctly. "I'll bet you a candy bar." Mr. Moore, our only Latin teacher, challenges a student for the correct answer.

Two Valiums, Please!

...Only fifteen minutes until the store closes. There is still a line at the register. I think this smile is permanently fixed on my face. Nothing like working until 11:00 PM to make me hate Christmas. Never say, "Can I help you?" "No, I'm just looking." The lady has four pairs of pants in her hands. This man is telling me his problems. What am I? Your psychiatrist? Mrs. Jones has nightmares of mass firings after Christmas. Are you going to be a difficult customer? I need a break! Let's go hide in the stockroom. "Do you work here? No, I stole somebody's name badge, and I'm wearing it for fun. Only thirteen minutes more. I haven't done my homework. How am I supposed to know if this is on sale? This is not my department. I wonder why this man is buying ten of the same shirt. Very imaginative Christmas present. Children should be seen and not let loose to knock down all the belts. I wonder why I got this job...

Debra Hoffman

"Where's that part?" Chip Martin searches for the matching piece while working at Twin B Auto Parts.

Why Won't This Computer Work?

Five years. It doesn't sound like a long time - unless you've been advising a yearbook staff. Countless times I've lost pictures, misplaced copy, and screamed at the computer that put these words on the page. God help the people who have had to work with me this year. They've carried more responsibility than any other group I've worked with. But I have to remember that this is their yearbook - not mine. That's the hardest thing about advising the book - letting the students do it their way, whether it's the accepted way or not. A good friend of mine - and another yearbook adviser - Mark Tavernier once told me, "Let them do it their way. It will mean more to them in the future." You know he's right.

I've seen yearbook staffs come and go. I've also seen people work frantically to complete yearbook deadlines. I've had my fair share of problems too - no proofs for the 1986 Trucker, a company problem with the design of this year's cover, and others too numerous to mention. But why am I still doing this after five years? Doing this yearbook enables me to meet students I wouldn't otherwise get to know. At least I can name the teachers in the building. The real rewards, however, come from the people who work with you. I don't want to do it forever - not even for another five years. Other priorities and goals are ahead.

It, however, has a been a rewarding experience. I only wish others would take the time to get to know the students. That is why we're in this job in the first place.

M. L. Fanny

"I need your help, Kim." Kim Hall patiently explains to Michelle Buie how she wants the layout done.

Awakening the Self with Art

Art is an awakening experience that allows for the development of aesthetic appreciation. The art program strives to increase student perceptual awareness by building self-awareness.

Art also provides a span of activities to develop the interests of the gifted and to enrich the lives of all art students. To accomplish these goals, art students participate in the District Student Gallery contests, the city-wide Hermitage events, the "Three Days in March" gallery at the Richmond Museum, and the state Virginia Forestry Program. Students also complete, with the aid of art teacher Mrs. Carole Platt, displays at Atlantic Permanent, Portsmouth General Hospital, the Richmond General Assembly, the Olde Towne art gallery, and the Portsmouth Community Center.

FBLA - Business and the Future

"Work is an experience that will help me with my future plan," states Leigh Ann Ridenour when asked about her job. She is currently working at the Department of Structural Services. Leigh Ann obtained her job through Cooperative Office Education or COE. Several students at Churchland High School are involved in COE, which is headed by Mrs. Judy Jones. Mrs. Jones helps students find jobs in business environments. Working in an office is a terrific learning experience which will be helpful in the future.

Along with COE, CHS also has a business club entitled Future Business Leaders of America. FBLA teaches students how to dress, speak, and act in a business-like manner. Guest speakers from businesses and colleges inform the students of future careers and how to obtain them. Indeed, COE and FBLA are two business oriented organizations that are helpful and informative.

Industrial Arts Rebuilds CHS Sign

Rebuilding the CHS sign that stands in front of the school was just one of the many activities that the Technology Club undertook this year. The club, under the sponsorship of Mr. John Sykes and Mr. William Griswold, also sold candy to raise money for its treasury.

The Technology Education department is coordinated by the two technology instructors Mr. Sykes and Mr. Griswold. The department offers a variety of courses to students. Mechanical drawing, communcation technology, and graphic arts are offered by Mr. Sykes. Mr. Griswold coordinates the wood technology and construction technology classes. Together they offer opportunities for students to show their precision and creativity through the use of their hands and minds.

Two Heads are Better than One in '87

What happens when there is a tie in the election for senior class president? Does the last year's president back down in order to pass the reigns to one of his closest friends? Or does the newcomer to the office succeed the other candidate? Only at Churchland would an option to have co-presidents be given. Anne St. George, last year's vice-president, and Matthew Pickworth, last year's president, are this year's co-presidents.

Both candidates were a little uncomfortable running against each other, having been friends for the last ten years. Both, however, gleefully accepted the new titles. In fact, "It couldn't have worked out any better," noted Matthew Pickworth.

Taco Heads to BYU

Last year Joel Teemant was a junior at Churchland. This year he is not a senior at Churchland but is in the graduating class of 1987 at Churchland. Strange, huh?

Joel and his family were going to move to Connecticut after his junior year. Joel didn't want to go to a new high school his senior year so he applied to a Brigham Young University where his older brother Merrill and older sister Valia are now attending. He was accepted and decided to go ahead and attend college and skip his senior year of high school.

The Teemants, however, did not move to Connecticut after all. Joel, having made the decision to go to BYU, decided to get a head start on everyone. Now only Karl and Leo Teemant are still attending Churchland. Even if he is half way across the United States, his friends still remember and think about him.

Working Hard. While his friends struggle through the rigors of Churchland, Joel Teemant keeps himself busy with classwork at BYU.

Need Something Done? Give Michele Kim a Call

Prom chairman. Senior Week co-chairman. Voted most dependable. Tennis team. Virginia Youth Symphony. National Honor Society. Spanish Honor Society. Yearbook.

Needless to say, someone involved in these activities is a rather busy person.

Michele Kim can usually be found in Mrs. Yearby's room discussing various school events. She has been with the senior class of 1987 since first grade and will graduate in the top ten percent of the class.

Michele's future aspirations include becoming an engineer and attending an in-state college. Not only has Michele been a most active senior and leader but she still has time for homework.

Melissa McCanna

Checking In. As Senior Week co-chairman Michele Kim checks with class sponsor Mrs. Susan Yearby to see if anything needs to be done for Senior Week '87.

1-800-SCHOOL-SPIRIT!!

He's a football player ... She's on the gymnastics team ... He plays baseball ... She's in the Villagers ... He's been here three years ... This is her first year.

From the way it sounds, Fran Stowe and Bryan Bouboulis seem to have absolutely nothing in common besides the fact that they're both seniors. However, if you look a little further, you'll notice that they do have something in common ... SCHOOL SPIRIT.

Fran came to this school at the beginning of this school year and already owns a pair of sweat pants with an orange '87 on the seat. Bryan came here at the beginning of his sophomore year and immediately became involved with sports. Every Friday night during football season, he's out on the field giving everything to his team and to his school.

Both of these seniors started at another high school yet both have developed a deep attachment to this school.

Foor and '88 - A Winning Combination

Receiving a new sponsor in the form of Ms. Elizabeth Foor added zesto to an already highly spirited class. Although she has only been here for two years, she has already gained the respect of the students with whom she works. Over the summer she began work with the former class president Chad Dennis on prom preparations. Later she made an early start in the election of class officers for the 1986-87 school year. They are Chad Dennis - president, Lori Cherry - vice-president, Jessica Canos - secretary, and JinAh Lee - treasurer.

The first event that the junior class undertook was the class float, which received first place for its stunning representation of the Wizard of Oz. A later event was Cinderfella, in which Chad Dennis took the crown and was backed by Trey Hanbury - first runner-up, Ben Hester - second runner-up, and Mike O'Connor - third runner-up.

Other activities included powder puff football and several fundraisers, including a "Festival of Foods," a candy bar sale, and a rooter shaker sale.

These activities and a new sponsor proved once again that '88 is great!

Keeping up the Standards

A high grade point average. Good attitudes. Willing to serve others. A few select people still have these qualities at Churchland High School.

One such person is Belinda Rhoades. She was inducted into the National Honor Society last year for her successful efforts at maintaining these qualities. Besides being in the National Honor Society, Belinda is an active member of her church.

Belinda stays busy, but she always manages to keep up with everything. This year at the Marshal induction assmebly, Belinda was awarded the title of Chief Marshal.

On the Run. Heading from her trigonometry class to lunch is Chief Marshal Belinda Rhoades.

A Passing of the Baton

As I stood on the stage yelling to the first assembly because of a power failure, I asked myself, "How could this happen to me?" At any rate, I started my speech and began the initiation of the 1986-87 Churchland High School Marshals.

The Marshals is a service society which serves the school at various functions by handing out programs and doing other small tasks. Twenty juniors are chosen by the faculty based on scholarship, character, citizenship, and a grade point average of at least 3.0. The person with the largest number of votes is appointed Chief Marshal. The SCA began this club, and since its beginning, its prestige has grown.

This year's Marshals consist of twenty very deserving juniors. As I pass my duties of Chief Marshal to Belinda Rhoades, I am very confident these new Marshals will uphold its services as well as the outgoing Marshals have.

Mr. William Gatling has headed up this club for many years. His dedication to the Marshals is greatly appreciated.

What? A Junior Becomes a Yearbook Editor

Having worked with the yearbook staff her freshman and sophomore years, Kim Hall wasn't exactly ready to accept what the sponsor had to offer her - the job as one of the editors of the 1987 Trucker.

For a junior to be named an editor of a yearbook is a rare thing. The title and, more importantly, the duties usually fall to a senior. Her duties included coordinating picture activities, planning the theme, cover design, and divider pages, and completing layouts.

Kim's other activities include working with the National Honor Society and the Marshals. On Saturdays she holds down a parttime job as a sales clerk at The Quality Shop.

Her work on the staff this year guarantees that the class of '88 will have a super senior yearbook.

Stepping Out. Representing the junior class in homecoming activities were Greg Piland and Kim Hall.

Champion Sales Start the Year

$15. $20. $25. Do I hear $30 for class dues?

In an effort to reduce future class dues, the sophomore class began early in the fall with a Champion Sales fundraising project. The class worked hard to raise money for the prom that it must give for the class of '88. The class also scheduled other fundraisers for the winter months and devoted the spring months to plans for the Junior - Senior Prom of 1988.

Supervising the fundraisers and prom preparations were class officers Amy Yearby, Steve Forrest, Stephen Mann, and Leslie McGlynn and class sponsor Mr. Earl Mabry, who began establishing better communications with homerooms by creating a small advisory board.

Go and Interview Yourself, Amy!

Are you playing any sports or doing any other activities after school?

Right now, I've got a lot of things to keep me busy after school. Villagers, track and (everybody's favorite) homework are the most time consuming, though.

How do you find time to fit everything in?

I don't know. I just try to make time for anything that comes my way. I spend most of my time after school at track practice. When I get home, its about suppertime. I'll eat. Then I get started on my homework. This usually keeps me up pretty late at night.

What's it like being the principal's daughter?

Many people think I get special treatment because I'm the principal's daughter. Well, I can tell you that I don't get treated any differently than anyone else. The fact is he's here to do his job and I'm here to do mine. However, it's always nice to know that you have a ride to school early in the morning and a ride home (if needed) instead of having to ride the bus.

Is there any pressure on you because of your dad being principal?

The only area that really pressures me is receiving grades. I try to make the best grades that I can, but there's always some pressure to try to do even better because of my dad's position. But I try not to think about it too much. I just do what I can, and everyone seems to understand, especially my dad. It's Great!

Amy Morgan

Another Meeting. Listening attentively at a yearbook staff meeting, Amy Morgan ponders what else she must do before the day is over.

Female Wrestlers? It's Possible

For the first time in the school's thirty year history, the boys and girls of Churchland High will share gym class together. This change comes about under Code 9 of the law, dating back so far that Mrs. Judy Glisson, one of the tenth grade physical education teachers, could not remember when the law was enacted. The code states that all students should have equality in the classroom. The co-ed gym system is supposed to alleviate the dilemma of inequality in the gym system thus far.

No longer will girls practice cheers or play kickball while the guys are off wrestling or playing touch football. From now on, they will participate in sports and classroom activities together.

Theresa Slezak

Togetherness. For the first time guys and girls worked together in physical education and health classes.

Sophomore Soccer Star Aaron Addison

One of the most outgoing students in the sophomore class is none other than Aaron Addison. He's also a good student athletically and academically.

Aaron is a soccer player and a great one at that. Last year, as a freshman, he played the positions of forward and halfback for the Churchland High soccer team. He contributed seven points to the team and was one of two freshmen to receive a letter for the season.

During the summer, Aaron perfected his soccer skills by trying out and making a select soccer team called the '71 Rowdies.

Now as a sophomore, Aaron is going out for the soccer team in hopes of leading us to victory.

Amy Morgan

Select Soccer Star. Keeping in shape by participating in area and school soccer groups keeps Aaron Addison busy.

Looking Ahead to 1990??

"To have a good prom and good floats."

"To graduate with honors and to have a championship team."

"To meet new people and to become a thespian."

These are just a few of the goals of the officers of the class of 1990.

The officers of the freshmen class are president - Shawn Garfield, vice-president - SunAh Lee, secretary - Allison Watson, and treasurer - Whitney Finger.

The sponsor is Mrs. Linda Mattson, who is also a "freshmen" at Churchland this year.

They have put a year behind them, but they have three more to achieve their goals.

And they are looking ahead.

On Her Toes Twenty-four Hours a Day

"I feel very honored for being chosen as a paragon of my freshman class. I'm very flattered that other people would think that highly of me," remarked Susan Padilla.

It is no surprise Susan was chosen to represent her freshman class. This active freshman dives, flips, swims, bats, dances, cheers, and even makes the honor roll.

"I love all kinds of sports. Being physically fit is very important to me, but school work ranks above all my other activities," Susan added.

In addition to being a junior varsity cheerleader, Susan is a member of the Churchland High gymnastics team. As a seventh and eighth grader, Susan practiced with the high school gymnastics team and performed as an exhibiitonist. Susan is also on the swimming and diving teams at the Churchland Swimming and Racquet Club.

"Diving is my favorite sport. My favorite trick is a front layout with a full twist."

Susan has been diving sine she was four. Her gymnastics training helps her diving skills a lot. Susan has acquired numerous ribbons and trophies for swimming and diving.

Her other extracurricular activities include recreational softball and ballet. She has been dancing for nine years.

This freshman is certainly on her toes.

Faking it as a Freshman

Everyone has been there - being a freshman.

"It ain't easy," remarked one disgruntled freshman. But what makes the freshman year of high school such a trauma?

Monday vocabulary quizzes that don't make any sense at all.

Reciting Spanish poems every Friday.

Dressing out for gym and knowing that you've still got another year to go.

Not knowing where anything is.

Being shorter than most other people.

Having to ride a bus to school.

Reading, reading and more reading.

Those stupid novels in English.

Being out screamed at pep rallies.

Grades.

But the worst thing has got to be being at the bottom of the ladder for everything.

Faking It. Freshman Bobby Welsby fakes a smile to help him get through the traumas of being a freshman.

French Fries, Please!

Churchland was fortunate enough to have two foreign exchange students here this year - Kirsi Kurppa and Mei Yip.

Kirsi, who is from Finland, is a junior this year. She showed her Trucker spirit by playing on the junior powder puff team. Kirsi is also a member of the Junior Class Advisory Board and the yearbook staff. When asked what she liked about Churchland High School, Kirsi replied that she liked the choice of clubs and of foods - especially the french fries.

Mei Yip, an exchange student from Hong Kong, China, is here to learn about us and to graduate with our seniors in June. Life at Churchland High School is very different from school in Hong Kong with recesses of twenty minutes and lunch for an hour. Also the teachers change classes not the students, but Mei says that she is enjoying her stay here very much. After graduation Mei plans to return to Hong Kong and become a social worker.

Monica Perry

Free Ride. Driving foreign exchange students Mei Yip and Kirsi Kurppa in the homecoming parade is Mike Davis.

"Now Where Did I Put That Assignment Sheet?"

As you open the door of the guidance office, you may notice the guidance counselors working as eager as beavers. Mrs. Hall is holding a conference, Miss Richardson is running off copies, and Mrs. Wheeler is frantically completing the seniors' college applications.

Amid all the hustle and bustle of the guidance office lies the "heart" of the school, Mrs. Claire Hill.

Mrs. Hill has been the guidance secretary for the last ten years at Churchland. As guidance secretary, she fulfills very demanding obligations every day. Her busy day includes typing letter after letter, memo after memo, enrolling new students, handling grade changes, and compiling transcripts.

Even though her job keeps her very busy, Mrs. Hill still takes delight in her work. Every day is different for her since she doesn't follow a set schedule; she just completes whatever tasks come along.

In addition, she doesn't have to deal with disciplining students; therefore, she only sees the good qualities of everyone she meets. Moreover, each day for her always gives her a feeling of accomplishment.

Mrs. Claire Hill is truly one of the most dedicated and caring people at Churhcland.

Felicidad Calica

Now where's that form? Guidance secretary Mrs. Claire Hill stops to answer one more question from a disgruntled student. She also keeps track of withdrawals, new students, and college transcripts.

If It's Fourth Period, This Must Be Room 120.

118. Free. 121. 118. 120. 118. Aud. What?

As the new drama teacher, Mrs. Linda Mattson had the unenviable job of being the floating teacher in the English department.

Although this is only her first year at Churchland, Mrs. Mattson is new neither to teaching nor to Churchland. She comes to us from Norfolk. Straight from the annuls of Welcome Back, Kotter, Mrs. Mattson returned to her alma mater Churchland High School. She is a 1963 graduate of Churchland High School, a distinction she shares with two other faculty members, Mrs. Vernon and Mrs. Yearby.

In addition to manuevering her way from classroom to classroom and to handling a schedule of sophomore English classes and Drama I, II, III, and IV, she keeps herself busy with local theatre activities and participation in local presentations.

At any rate, "Welcome back, Mattson."

Bad News, huh? Yes, it is bad news for Mrs. Mattson's third period English 10X class as she prepares to give them a vocabulary quiz.

For the past four years, the Class of 1987 has been gifted with dedicated, hard-working officers. However, these exuberant individuals have gotten little, if any, recognition. This page is dedicated to our officers and all that they have done.

Special thanks go to Ms. Susan Yearby, our adviser, whose tireless efforts have made the Class of '87 all it could be. She has been the major incentive behind our homecoming floats, numerous fundraisers, and one of the best proms that Churchland High has ever seen - only to name a few of her achievements. Her constant guidance and the support of the class, and the class officers in particular, have earned her an overwhelming amount of respect, love , and admiration.

Thanks again, Ms. Yearby!

Where's 305?

In an effort to avoid more overcrowding problems, the School Board provided Churchland with three more mobile units. Located near the old tennis courts, the mobiles were occupied by the PE department, learning support personnel and Mrs. Hernandez.

With more students coming next year, more mobiles may be on the way.

Remember, you're not alone anymore, Mr. Moore.

Rachel Brisbin Heads Scholastic Achievement Team

Selected by the faculty, twelve students - four seniors, four juniors, and four sophomores - were chosen to represent Churchland High School on The Ledger Star Scholastic Achievement Team.

Those chosen included seniors Rachel Brisbin, Felicidad Calica, Irma D'Amato, Erinn Finger, juniors Greg Buxton, Belinda Rhoades, Christen Mank, Kim Hall, sophomores Amy Morgan, Michelle Sunnucks, Taylor Rhodes, and Sue-Jin Lee.

Brisbin was also selected by the faculty to serve as captain of the team. This honor places her on the Tidewater Scholastic Achievement Team and makes her eligible to compete for a $4000.00 scholarship offered by the newspaper.

The organization of the team was coordinated by guidance counselor Ms. Anita Richardson.

Edmondson Leads SCA

CHS — "It's a Matter of Pride"

The 1986-87 school year offered a year of many new challenges for the SCA. Under the direction of new sponsor Mrs. Lucy Lassiter, the SCA, with the commitment of the officers and through the cooperation of the student body, met the challenges.

Major projects supported by the SCA were the 1986 orientation, where the announcement of the new sponsor was made, the 1986 homecoming with the parade, halftime activities, Spirit Week, and a video dance, the canned food drive, which raised more food than past food drives, and the annual selling of Christmas seals.

Other projects for 1987 included the creation of an Inter-Club Council, computer dating services, a Valentine's Dance, reconstruction of the Constitution, and the Spirit Up Churchland campaign - It's a Matter of Pride.

All of these activities were made possible by the four people who made a commitment in May of 1986 to serve the student body - Frankie Edmondson, president; Pete Roberts, vice-president; Irma D'Amato, secretary; and John Ho, treasurer. For the first time a fifth officer was installed. Stephanie Mabry was appointed by the president as Sergeant of Arms.

Edmondson also served as chairman of the Mayor's Youth Advisory Commission and as president of the Portsmouth Citywide SCA.

Atlantic Permanent, PGH Adopt CHS

As part of the Portsmouth Chamber of Commerce's Adopt a School Program, both Atlantic Permanent Federal Savings and Loan and Portsmouth General "adopted" Churchland High School.

In adopting the school, both organizations sponsored programs, conducted lectures, and provided students and staff with special treats such as bookcovers and pumpkin pies at Thanksgiving. These activities fostered a mutually beneficial relationship and promoted interaction between the school and the community.

Brisbin, Calica lead Class Honor Grads

Rachel Brisbin, class valedictorian, and Felicidad Calica, class salutatorian, ranked as the top two graduates for the Class of 1986.

At the close of the first semester, 39 seniors had achieved honor graduate status, including BYU freshman and CHS senior Joel Teemant. To achieve this honor, a student must have a cummulative grade point average of 3.0 over four years of high school work. In fact six of the honor graduates had achieved better than a 4.0 due to the weighted grading system.

Churchland High Hits the Airwaves on WHRO's Tidewater Challenge Show

Churchland's Tidewater Challenge Team took a step forward this year in the annual regional competition. Team members Beth Spencer, Cathi Cantieri, Jason Jones, and Andy Ryder won the first round competition for the first time in the five years that Churchland has participated in the program.

In a fast paced match with Ferguson High School on the set of WHRO studio, Beth, Cathi, Jason, and Andy matched wits with Ferguson and won with a final score of 440-340. Advancing to the second round, the team met its defeat in a match with Poquoson High School, three-time regional champions.

Regional competition was over, but the team wasn't finished. They then went on to participate in the Portsmouth Academic Challenge (PAC) in which members demonstrated promise for the next year. Competitors for the games were other Portsmouth secondary schools.

The team, with only one graduating senior, will have three players return next year, as well as several devoted alternates, Felicia Flores, Jon Satko, and Laura Cordray.

"Next year we'll go even farther," notes sponsor Mrs. Lucille Hernandez.

How Do You Spell Spirit at CHS? Try I - R - M - A!

Who's the loudest at the football games? Who's known as the band fan? Who's busy taking pictures at every gymnastics meet? Who's the cheerleader for all seasons and all sports?

This answer to all of these questions is none other than Irma "Pickle" D'Amato.

Irma's faithfulness to the various teams and to the other activities at the school garnered her the honor of "Most School Spirited." She attends every home football game and most away ones too, rooting for the Truckers whether they're winning or losing. She's become such as avid supporter of the band that she's become an honorary band member, known as the Band Fan. She also keeps busy with photography, taking pictures of the band and of the gymnastics team at its meets.

She's indeed one of a kind. She's our own Pickle.

Christy Norton Named DECA Student of the Year

At the yearly DECA Competitive Events CHS senior Christy Norton was named DECA Student of the Year.

In addition to Norton's honor, Lisa Morgan, also a senior, won second place in the category. Other trophy winners included Beth Satorre, Wendy Bittle, Charlie Tuggle, Debra Hoffman, Barry Bright, John Turner, Kenny Britt, Mike Reynolds, Adam Ward, and Gerald Duncan.

The events are coordinated through the marketing education programs at the area high schools and are meant to demonstrate a student's on the job expertise and his knowledge of merchandise and selling techniques.

All in all, Churchland's marketing program cleaned up on the honors.

Four Make Regional Band

Four CHS band members were selected to participate in the 1987 Regional Band. Honored band members included Nancy Stiles, SaraBeth Colon, Melissa McCanna, and Charles Love.

Congratulations!

Thanks, Mrs. B!

You've listened to our sad stories about being tardy no matter how many times you've heard the same story from us. You've greeted us with a smile no matter how bad you may have felt. You've tried to keep us straight despite our numerous attempts at getting in trouble. You've kept the Xerox machine running for the teachers. You've made sure we got messages from our parents when they called. Indeed, you've just about done it all.

Thanks, Mrs. Lois Brantley for everything!!

Jaye Thomas Ranks in Top 50

Local skateboarder Jaye Thomas was selected one of the top 50 skaters in the USA.

As a reward he and his brother Lee, who was alternate, traveled to Los Angeles, California, in December to compete for top honors. Jaye would like to continue working on his skateboarding while he pursues a college degree in business management.

ADIOS!!

Each year Churchland High School loses a few of its fine educators. This year we bid a fond farewell to Mrs. Lucille Hernandez ans Mrs. Debbie Finger.

Both teachers are moving to be with their spouses, who have received job transfers.

Their insights, talents, and support will be sorely missed by the students of Churhland High.

Adios, ladies, and thanks again.

Thanks. Thank you, Mrs. Debbie Finger (left) and Mrs. Lucille Hernandez, for your support and contributions to Churchland High.

Patillo Returns as Building Engineer

After a few years away from the corridors of CHS, Mr. Mike Patillo returned to serve the school as its building engineer. He has spent the last few years at Woodrow Wilson High School.

Mr. Patillo's return was greeted with enthusiasm, especially by the staff. He and his daytime staff, Mrs. Iola Battle and Mr. Roosevelt Brown, keep the building in good shape.
